The 2018-2019 School of Architecture Lecture Series will train attention on the ways we define “place”. Experience of place springs simultaneously from sensual perception of the environment and our ecological habitat and from the cultural constructions of our social milieu, including cultures of building and making. “Place” may occur for us in nature, in the city, or in our professional lives. Join us for a thorough examination of the places each of us inhabits, the cultures that condition and interpret them, and the role architecture can play as a lens onto our world and a portal to the future.

DAVID LEWIS
LTL Architects
_Architecture through Section_
09/24

FRANK HARMON
Frank Harmon Architect
_Drawing as a Way to See_
10/15

WILLIAM CURTIS
Abstraction and Light:
_A Meditation on the Alhambra_
10/22

ROSA SHENG
SmithGroupJJR
_Why Equity Matters: A New Value Proposition for Design_
01/28

MAURICIO ROCHA + GABRIELA CARRILLO
Taller de Arquitectura
_Process_
02/11

JULIE SNOW
Snow Kreilich Architects
_Site Evidence_
02/18

XAVIER VENDRELL
Auburn University
_Rural Studio_
03/25

The 2018-2019 School of Architecture Lecture Series will train attention on the ways we define “place”. Experience of place springs simultaneously from sensual perception of the environment and our ecological habitat and from the cultural constructions of our social milieu, including cultures of building and making. “Place” may occur for us in nature, in the city, or in our professional lives. Join us for a thorough examination of the places each of us inhabits, the cultures that condition and interpret them, and the role architecture can play as a lens onto our world and a portal to the future.